MEMORANDUM FOR: Mr. Duckett

SUBJECT :

25X1A

1. Jack Blake called to say that he would be out of town through Wednesday and that would carry the ball if Office of Logistics were asked to put together a package of information on for Admiral Taylor.

2. Although I had asked Blake explicitly to do this, he came back initially in a sort of left-handed way hoping you would mention it to Bannerman. At the end of the conversation today, he pointed out that Office of Logistics characteristically put such packages together for Admiral Taylor's information and would do it this time if asked. I had left with Jack that brief list of items which you and I had discussed a couple of days ago, and Jack's remark indicating that Office of Logistics really had the ball came out when I said I thought the items would be useful to you for your backup, but would not be the type of detail that would go forward from you to the Admiral.

3. Wouldn't a good data base which could be queried to provide information on Agency R&D programs without having every Indian and sub-chief scrambling for the ball be nice to have.
